INDICTMENTS RETURNED TODAY.

Great Indignation Among Republicans Over Partisan Action.

DO NOT BELIEVE DR. HUNTER GUILTY

Frankfort, April 17.—The grand jury has the floor. Speculation as to what its action would be have been rife for several days. They were set at rest this morning by the return of indictments against Hunter, Franks, Gaines, Tanner, and Wilson. Notwithstanding this is what has been expected the return of the indictment cause a sensation and its effect on the Doctor's chances and those of others is a fruitful source of speculation. The sound money men believe it will result in the election of Senator Martin. But as this would require the practically solid vote of the Republicans for their Democratic colleague, it is not believed possible to concentrate enough votes to elect him.

There is great indignation among Republicans over the indictment of Dr. Hunter. They say it is simply a partisan scheme to compass his defeat by discrediting him before the world, and based on perjury. It is denounced as the vilest plot ever concocted for political ends. There are few people who really believe there is anything in the charges. It is probable some one or more connected with the plot may land in the penitentiary for false swearing.

A PADUCAH BOY

Appointed Southern Express Agent at Lexington, Tenn.

Mr. Richard Geagen's Pleasant Surprise Yesterday.

Mr. Richard J. Geagen, of the city, son of Mr. R. Geagen, local agent of the Southern Express Company, received a dispatch yesterday to report at once at Lexington, Tenn., and ask no questions.

He did so, and when he arrived was checked in as agent for the company at that place by Route Agent E. C. Spence. The surprise was a pleasant one for Mr. Geagen, who is a worthy and popular young man, and one who will make friends anywhere. He has been running as express messenger for the Southern over the N. C. and St. L. at various times for the past several months.

A GOOD ENTERTAINMENT.

In addition an excellent program was rendered. The judges in the cake walk were: Messrs. George Detzel, John McNulty, James Clements, Richard Foster and Given Fowler.

USED A POKER.

According to Reports, But the Reports Were Not Reliable.

It was reported today today that there had been a lively encounter at a South Fifth street boarding house yesterday afternoon, as a result of which the proprietor was beaten with a poker in the hands of a female boarder.

Officer Eiter investigated the case, and says there is nothing in it except the proprietor and boarder had an altercation over a board bill.

TRYING TO STEM THE TIDE.

W. J. Bryan Invited to Speak Before the Legislature.

THE AIRSHIP SEEN AT BEAVER DAM.

New Orleans, April 17.—News has been received of the breaking of Biggs levee, by which many thousands acres of the finest land in the state is rapidly being inundated. Two thousand hands are now at work trying to stay the tide above, but with small prospect of success. There will undoubtedly be great distress and heavy loss of life growing out of the break. The loss of property will be heavy, and the incident a loss from failure of crop will be incalculable.

RAINY SEASON PREPARATION

Weyler Orders the Erection of An Infirmary on the Trocha.

Havana, April 16.—In view of the approach of the rainy season, Capt. Gen. Weyler has ordered the erection of an infirmary on the trocha, and the extension of the military hospitals. New hospitals will be constructed under the supervision of the sanitary inspector general at Trinidad, Casilda, Isabella and Sagua.

The Captain General has ordered the demolition of all houses inside the cultivated zone. This is on the theory that the peasants will remain at night in the block houses and remove their families to town. In this way, says Gen. Weyler, the regulars will not be exposed to the risk in case of insurgent aggression, of shooting women and children.

Five well-known merchants have been fined $500 each for issuing fractional script without authority.

There have been skirmishes at Placetas, Sagua, Ciego, Avila and Grande Minas, in which, according to official reports, the insurgents lost eighteen killed. More than sixty huts have been destroyed in the district named.

THE AIRSHIP SEEN

At Beaver Dam By More Than Fifty Persons.

Beaver Dam, Ky., April 17.—More than fifty persons claim to have seen the airship in this vicinity last night. Not only the light was seen, but a number claim to have seen the moving body of a dark object and some heard the noise of its movement. There can be little doubt, from the character of the people who saw it, that the phenomenon was some character of airship under complete control of the operators.

WENT THROUGH THE CAB.

Driving Rods on a Locomotive Break Loose.

Small Matters of Interest on the Big Illinois Central.

The St. Louis train, due at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, was delayed two hours by an accident to the locomotive. The driving rods of the engine became in some manner detached, and were about to penetrate the cab, when Fireman James Montague jumped. Engineer Ike Sweet remained at his post, however, and there was no one injured. This is the second engine to meet with a similar mishap on that division lately.

The offices at Millington and Alton, Tenn., will be closed at night until further notice, on account of a relaxation in business.

Montague, the fireman who jumped from the St. Louis passenger train near Marion, Ill., yesterday when the driving rods went through the cab, dived into several feet of mud, and had to be pulled out by sheer force. He had a shoulder badly injured.

A couple from Illinois who came over on the early train this morning attracted no little attention and created no little amusement on board the train by their affectionate demonstrations, according to the train men. Their resounding "snacks" were audible all over the car, and they did not seem to mind being observed.

Civil Engineer E. H. Bowser, of the Illinois Central, is in the city today.

The pay train, in charge of Assistant Paymaster Rowell, will arrive this evening from the St. Louis division and leaves on 204 in the morning for Louisville. It is due back on the 21st inst.

Dispatcher Jorgensen resumed work today, after a brief illness.

ATTEMPTED RAPE

Charge Preferred Against Wm. Wallace at Briensburg.

Rosa Alexander, Aged 13, His Alleged Victim.

William Wallace, a young white man of Calloway county, about 25 years of age, was arrested at Briensburg yesterday on a charge of attempted rape.

His alleged victim is Rosa Alexander, daughter of respectable parents. The deed is supposed to have been committed the first part of the week. He was quietly committed to jail to avoid excitement, and his bond was fixed at $500, which it is thought he cannot give. His examining trial is set for next week.

Little is known of the accused. He arrived in Marshall county a few days ago from Calloway, and got in trouble the first thing.

He came up town, and Dr. Horace Rivers sewed up the wound and dressed the man's head. No arrests were made, and few knew anything about the occurrence. The origin of the trouble is unknown.

MURDER WILL OUT

Mysterious Telegram Revives a Forgotten Tragedy.

A MURDERER MAY BE DISCOVERED

Ed Ross in the Lockup, Receives a Mysterious Telegram From Crittenden County.

HE PROBABLY KNOWS THE MURDERER.

The arrival of a mysterious telegram at police headquarters last night revives an almost forgotten tragedy of Crittenden county which occurred in 1892.

Ed Ross, of South Tenth street, is in the lockup on a charge of striking his wife. He informed Lockup Keeper Keller that he was expecting a telegram, and after supper it arrived. He asked Lockup Keeper Harry Keller to read it to him, and its contents were substantially that "$200 reward for Dobson's murderer." It was from a Crittenden county official, and after its receipt Ross pocketed the message and would divulge its contents to no one. Neither would he say why the telegram came to him, although the reporters and prisoners attempted to pump him. A review of the history of the case may shed some light on the subject, however.

In 1892 Henry Dobson, an industrious, hard working blacksmith who lived at Crittenden Springs, Crittenden county, was called to his door one night and told that a man had been shot down the road some distance, and implored to bring a lamp and assist them in getting the wounded man where his injuries could be dressed. Dobson did as asked, and when he reached the gate was shot down and mortally wounded. He lingered until the following morning at 7 o'clock, and said that he had no idea who committed the cowardly deed, as he did not have an enemy in the world that he knew of. At his death there was great indignation, and citizens offered a reward of $200 in addition to $250 offered by the governor for the assassin. The murder was shrouded in mystery from the very start, however, and although detectives and authorities worked indefatigably on the case nothing was ever accomplished. One man was arrested on suspicion and afterwards released.

But three women who lived near Dobson were always believed to know something about the case. These were two Aker women, one of who, Belle Aker, now lives here, and the other, who was then Davis Norris, is the wife of Ed Ross, the man in the lockup, and is also a resident of Paducah. They lived near Dobson and bore shady reputations. One theory is that Dobson may have known something about the women and their associates, which the latter were afraid he would divulge. To obviate this he was killed. The women left the locality and came here soon after the tragedy, and although they were subsequently taken before the grand jury, they exposed nothing, and left the matter as much a mystery as ever. The cruel assassination has never to this day been avenged, although five years have elapsed.

The Norris woman married Ed. Ross after she came to Paducah. The present theory is that Ross has found out from her who killed Henry Dobson, and is after the reward—or else why the telegram, which is obviously in reply to one from Ross himself. Future developments will be awaited with interest, especially by the many people who recall the horrible tragedy. It is possible that the old adage, "Murder will out" is soon to be demonstrated in this case.

It was whispered about today that Mrs. Ross had disclosed the name of Dobson's slayer not only to her husband, but to the police, and that he is now in Paducah, but this could not be verified.

"The victories of 1898 and 1900 are still to be won," says ex-Senator Hill, of New York. Right you are, Mr. Hill, and from the Democratic standpoint they are in the bag, many distance.

The senate still delays the consideration of the arbitration treaty. An effort was made by Senator Davis to set the day for the final vote upon the treaty as a whole. This was resisted by the senators and the treaty is still suspended.

The ill-formed alliance between France and Russia has been broken and the ancient enemy of the Gallic republic now enjoys the confidence of the Muscovite. Why a liberal republic like France should seek an alliance with the most despotic of despots does not appear.

THE little handful of Greeks who have crossed the Macedonian frontier and marched against the strong Turkish garrisons display a boldness that is worthy an ancestry whose deeds of valor have been sang in every age and tongue. Their chances of destruction at the hands of overwhelming numbers of Turks would seem to be bright.

It has been decided, in accordance with the ideas of Capt. Cooper, of the navy, to build a sailing vessel for a training ship. Opinion is divided among the officials of the bureau of naval constructors as to the advisability of this course, many thinking it better to train on steam vessels. However, a sailing vessel of 1000 tons burden will be built at a cost of $275,000.

THE incompetent Democrats holding positions obtained by political preferment and afterward protected by the extension of the civil service law, will have to go. This is the determination of a number of the cabinet officers and it is right. Republicans were arbitrarily displaced by Democrats before the extension of the law. Let every incumbent of such a position show his competency or step down and out.

THERE are said to be signs of something soon to transpire relative to Hawaii that will be of great interest. Whether it is that a treaty of annexation has been negotiated or that congress will be asked to sustain the administration in preventing any foreign power from interfering in Hawaiian affairs the correspondents are uncertain. Indications have recently justified the belief that Japan has set her lustful eyes toward the fertile little islands.

RECENT imports of goods made to circumvent the advance in tariff have greatly reduced the balance of trade in our favor. The bluff of retaliation in the Dingley law does not seem to have worked quite as well as would the actual passage of the law. Every day's delay in the passage of the law does to the government large revenues and, worse than that, cuts the American laborer out of thousands of dollars of wages by displacing his product in our own markets.

ON Monday the children of the national capital will have a grand Easter egg hunt in the capital grounds. It is a custom that has prevailed for some years to throw open the grounds to the children on the day succeeding Easter Sunday, and such a scene of unrestrained mirth as is exhibited by the thousands there gathered, of all ages, sizes and complexions, is seldom witnessed. The "keep off the grass" signs are removed and they have their own will at everything.

CHIEF CLERK RENCK, of the state department, has been given a leave of absence for one month with the understanding that at the end of that time he will be superseded. This is one of the offices around which Mr. Cleveland stretched his protecting arms in extending the operation of the civil service law. It will not avail, however, as a determination appears to have been reached to correct some of Mr. Cleveland's abuses of the law by the removal of some of his proteges.

SPAIN has apparently come to the conclusion that she cannot crush the rebellion and is about to withdraw all troops from the interior, and confine herself to the seaports, playing the island is "pacified," for moral effect on the world. Such action will give new life and new blood to the insurrection, will soon compel all American governments to acknowledge the belligerency or independence of the island. It is the worst "pacified" country the world ever saw.

SECRETARY LONG, of the Navy, says he will not be dictated to by the armor companies in relation to the manufacture of the plate for the new battle ships, and if they do not come to his terms he will place the order elsewhere. In the meantime, however, a bill has been introduced by Senator Chandler empowering the secretary to seize one or both the plants and manufacture the armor plate. This rather un-American proceeding may be adopted as a dernier resort.

A COMMISSION is provided for in a bill introduced by Senator Hansbrough, of North Dakota, to be known as the "Bread Foods Commission of the United States." Its object is to introduce and popularize the bread foods of the United States in China and Japan. The commission is to report from time to time to the Secretary of Agriculture. Such a commission may result greatly to our advancement in trade with the East, but why not extend the field of labor assigned the commission to embrace other products? A government commission looking out for fields for profitable investment and trade in all directions in those countries and promptly reporting it to the Secretary, through whom it should become known to the country, would be of incalculable benefit to our people by expanding our markets.

It would seem that by this time, after the almost constant discussion of the tariff in Congress for the past six years and the enactment of two bills going over the entire subject in detail, the Senators should be well enough versed in it to be able to pass it without long and tiresome debate in which no new ideas will or can be advanced. But this we cannot expect. Senator Allison believes the bill may be passed by the fifteenth of June or the first of July—eight or ten weeks distant. The Senator is a friend to the measure and is probably sanguine, so that we need not look for final action sooner than the dates he mentions, and it may come much later. In the meantime capital and labor are idle and waiting expectantly for the question to be settled before the industries can get a move on themselves. Good good time is being lost and many dollars to our labor as a tribute to Senatorial sloth.

If the Chicago election was carried on free silver doctrine Carter Harrison, the new mayor, has a poor way of showing his allegiance to the doctrine and his fealty to the party which elected him. In selecting his cabinet the three principal places are given to gold Democrats, and but one man of pronounced silver proclivities is given a place, and he is not a Democrat but a Populist. The biggest place is given to a man who is pro se non grata to ex-Governor Altgeld, a man whom he removed from office during his administration as governor. The only man whom Mr. Altgeld recommended was rejected in such a manner as to betray an apparent desire to snub the ex-governor. The fact seems to be that Mr. Harrison fully understands that the election was carried out on national but local issues, and that he is in a large measure indebted for his success to men who, on the national issues, are diametrically opposed to him. He has accordingly entirely ignored these considerations and chosen as his friends and advisers those who agree with him as to the proper mode of conducting the municipal affairs without regard to other considerations. So much for the claims of Democracy that the elections showed a disapproval of the Republican administration in its incipency.

THE New York "Evening Post" makes some rather violent deductions from the recent actions of Democratic members of congress, and of Mr. Bryan. Referring to the latter it says: "That doughty champion of free trade can roar you as gently as any sucking dove how that the tariff is the main issue, and the only issue in congress and the press," and it adds that "the Democratic party, save only the men who went last year to Indianapolis and supported Palmer and Buckner, are trying to betray their low tariff principles, for which they have all been stamping and raving for the past twenty years, and none more loudly than Bryan himself." This may be putting it a little strongly, but that at heart many of the Democratic statesmen desire to see the Dingley bill enacted while ostensibly they are opposing it, there is not a particle of doubt. They know full well they cannot defeat it and they can safely make themselves solid with their constituents, whom they have educated to the free trade theory and at the same time run no risk of perpetrating the existing tariff, whose blighting influence they have witnessed during the last three years. A very few of them have had the courage to vote their convictions and the chances are the example they set will prove contagious.

TARIFF OBSERVATIONS
By Robt. Ellis Thompson in the Irish World.
Another difficult tariff problem is that presented by duties on raw materials. The production of such materials is just as much a national interest as is their manufacture into clothing or tools. We can no more afford to be dependent on other countries for wool or pig-iron or steel than we can for cloth or saws. We need a complete and rounded system of industry, and the assumption of some manufacturers that the tariff is meant for the increase and development of manufactures is untrue. Alexander Hamilton and Prof. Bowen are the only names among American protectionists that can be pleaded for that notion of the object of a tariff. Every protective tariff we have had, not excepting those which were enacted under the influence of Hamilton, has included raw materials. Some of our greatest industries, notably the growth of cotton on a great scale in America, have been due to such protection. The development of the American merino has been due to it. The wool-grower was especially considered in the tariff legislation of 1828 and 1868, and for the strongest reasons. The sheep is one of the elements of national defense. Its absence impoverishes our farming, as it will leave our manufacturers dependent on an uncertain supply from abroad. Yet the sheep and its wool have been the especial object of free trade hostility. John Randolph used to say he would go a mile out of his way to kick a sheep. And the minute the duties the new tariff proposes to lay on wool are made public, John Randolph's descendants raise a outcry. They also are backed by manufacturers who want wool free in the interests of their own business, and the outcry of a few is exaggerated and repeated until it sounds as though there were a general resistance. Our woolen manufacturers generally are wise by experience in this matter. They tried the experiment in 1883, and found that free wool, with lower duties on wool, brought only disaster.

Some carpet manufacturers plead that Russian wools, being of a coarser grade than can be produced with profit in America, should come in free. So they might, if they were picked and sorted. But every fleece of Russian wool contains a large quantity of material that is fit for the making of other wools than carpets. This is picked out by hand after the fleece has been imported, and sold to the woolen makers in competition with American and Australian wool; and this is the objection to putting Russian fleeces on a free list.

The free traders charge humping on the Dingley tariff bill, because it lays import duties on many kinds of agricultural produce, which we export in great quantities. It is, therefore, assumed that once it ever can be imported, and that a duty is laid on them only for political effect. This, however, is not true. There is now a large quantity of tallow duties which Canada is ready to send into America if the duty be not imposed. It was, in fact, one of the worst faults of the Wilson-Gorman tariff, that it threw open the great market created by protection in New England to the farm products of Canada. It was this access to our Nova East markets, under our free trade tariff, which gave a fresh impetus to free trade opinion on their side of the border. Ever since the Dingley bill has been before the public there has been a reaction toward protection in Canada. They have begun to feel that their prosperity is not to be achieved at our expense, but by following our example. It is, therefore, of prime importance to the American farmer that the Canadian should not be allowed to step down before him into the markets of our Eastern states. The Kanuck has some great advantages over the farmer beyond the Alleghenies, in a free market. He is far nearer to the consumer. He has plenty of railroad communication. He has friends in the souls of Canadians who have drifted into New England and are making a living there. But the tariff says: "Wait, my friend, America for the Americans; not for the Kanucks!"

Signs of the Advance Agent.
The record of trade failures, as given by "Dun's Review" for the quarter ending March 31, shows a decrease both in their number and the amount of liabilities as compared with the corresponding period in 1896. The figures since 1890 are of interest, as they show the growth of bankruptcy after the advent of Democracy, and its immediate decline again under a Republican administration.

Trade failures first three months of:
1890..... 3,328..... 37,802,000
1891..... 3,843..... 42,927,000
1892..... 3,884..... 70,384,500
1893..... 3,302..... 47,338,300
1894..... 3,304..... 60,412,300
1895..... 3,862..... 47,813,000
1896..... 4,011..... 55,455,300
1897..... 9,652..... 48,002,911

As the failures in January last were the largest on record for any single month, the improvement in February, and particularly in March, is the more striking.—American Economist.
BRUTAL SPANISH GUERRILLAS.
Insurgents Put to the Machete and Women Harshly Treated.
A special dispatch to the "Globe-Democrat" from Key West, Fla., says:
Havana advices report that the Alfonso N.H. Battalion had a fight near Las Union, Santa Clara Province, yesterday with a force from Gen. Lacer's division, the opposing forces being about 300 men each. The Spaniards were being a plantation near a Cuban camp. The latter attacked them furiously. The fight was a hot one for three hours, the Spaniards using the buildings on the plantation as defenses. Finally they were driven out, and had to retreat with a loss of forty-five killed and wounded and eighteen taken prisoners. The Cuban loss was twenty-four.

A detachment of Spanish guerrillas caught thirteen insurgents near Guines, this province, day before yesterday. Finding themselves surrounded they surrendered. They were carried a half mile from where they were captured and cut to pieces with machetes, their bodies being left in the road.
The plantation of Varnado Gonzales, near St. Miguel, this province, was raided Friday by a Spanish guerrilla force, as it was reported that he was trying to grind cane. There were thirty-four men on the estate, 31 of whom were seized and bound by the guerrillas. The men were sold to the guerrillas; left, two of them being all put into one of the sugar houses and burned. Fifteen women and girls who were in the party were treated in an outrageous and shameful manner and we are taken with the band when they left. One of the girls was killed at the plantation because she slapped a Spanish officer in the face. The plantation was entirely ruined, all the cane that was left standing being left, while the banana grove and other growing crops were all devastated and destroyed as much as possible.

POSTMASTER FIFTY-SIX YEARS.
A Veteran Handler of the Mail in Pennsylvania.
The oldest postmaster in continuous service in the United States lives in central Pennsylvania. His name is Joseph Strode and he lives at Strode's Mills, a pretty village in Mifflin county. This old pioneer postmaster has held the one position since 1845, and still holds it at the present time, although he is now in his sixtieth year. As a recognition of his long and faithful service for the government, the post office department at Washington had his picture on exhibition at the world's fair and it was considered one of the most interesting features of that great demonstration.

Strode's Mills is a quiet, old-fashioned village situated in the heart of Mifflin county. The country surrounding it is rich in farming lands and valuable and is said to be one of the best of the kind in the state. Although the place is over a century old, its inhabitants number only 200. The people are mostly well-to-do, and ever since the establishment of the village the lands have passed down from one generation to another and very seldom has it been that the lands and real properties have come out of the family possession. They are a happy race of people, contented with their lot and seldom, if ever, bothering the outside world. They are in reality a world to themselves and as such but little have ever heard of them outside of their village limits.

In 1820 Amos Strode received the appointment of postmaster, during Martin Van Buren's administration, and continued in office until his death in 1894. Joseph Strode, the present postmaster, was the son of Amos Strode, and at his father's death received the appointment through Cave Johnson, postmaster-general under President Polk. For the last ten years his son, Amos A. Strode, has been his assistant.—Chicago News.

MEMORIAL

To Elizabeth A. Downs of Banner
Commandery 596 Golden Cross.

Whereas it has pleased an All Wise Father to take to himself our beloved sister, "Lady Elizabeth A. Downs," and remove her from our midst to the mansion above.

First, Therefore be it resolved in the death of Sister Downs, Banner Commandery has sustained a severe loss.

Second, Resolved that Sister Downs was a true follower of the Star of Bethlehem in practice, a good Samaritan, and in her death, her faith in Christ was unflinching, demonstrating to the world that the teachings of our order are not in vain.

Resolved, That we treasure her memory in our hearts, and that her life is an example well worthy of our imitation.

Resolved that a copy of these resolutions be spread on our records, also published in the Paducah, daily papers, also the Golden Cross "Journal," also a copy be furnished to the bereaved husband and children.

Respectfully,
MR. J. A. FOWLER,
MR. M. E. MOHRAN,
MR. WALTER MURPHY,
